

BRINDABELLA ROSES™

The FOREMOSTCO® family

www.foremostco.com

BRINDABELLA ROSES™

SUNTORY
SUNTORY FLOWERS

Landscape Zones 4-9

FEATURES

- Dense, bushy foliage
- Excellent resistance to black spot and powdery mildew
- Large, double, fragrant flowers

PRODUCT USES

- Home Gardens
- Commercial Landscapes
- Potted Plants

GROWING INFORMATION

Growing Brindabella Roses is easy and matches production practices for modern, vigorous shrub roses:

- Crop time: 14 to 20 weeks for gallon pots and 26 to 30 weeks for 3-gal. pots.
- Growing media: Use a porous, free-draining mix. Substrates may include a blend of bark, coir, peat, sand and perlite, depending on the grower's preference and region.
- Fertility: Pre-plant incorporate a slow-release granular fertilizer. Top dress as needed. Feed them—they want to grow!
- Planting: Plant immediately upon receipt of liners. One liner per pot. Do not bury the crown.
- Exposure: Full sun in field production. If greenhouse grown, provide 30% shade.
- Irrigation regimen: Water at regular intervals, allowing pots to dry down between irrigation cycles to where pots are moist, but not wet. Water early in the day to ensure that foliage is dry overnight.
- Pinching/pruning: Pinching at planting isn't required, but doing so will encourage branching. Likewise, pruning during production isn't necessary, as Brindabella Roses are naturally well-branched and exhibit early bud production and flowering, however, plants will respond well to pruning.
- Pest management: As with any rose production regimen, it's essential to maintain a thorough integrated pest management approach, with regular scouting practices to monitor for symptoms of downy mildew and twospotted spider mites. Early treatment is essential with high-efficacy fungicides and miticides at full label rates. Brindabella roses are inherently resistant to blackspot and powdery mildew, although producers should still monitor for infection and treat if necessary.

DAWN

Rosa 'GRAsalm' PP28,056

Gorgeous old world blooms in salmon, with hints of apricot as the heat of summer arrives, and powerful true rose perfume.

FIRST LADY

Rosa 'GRAsalm' PP28,332

Beautiful lavender-pink flowers in that romantic old-world style, coupled with wonderful traditional rose perfume.

GLOW

Rosa 'GRApr' PP28,074

A chameleon in the garden, with ever-changing blends of pink, yellow and apricot and very strong fruity fragrance with hints of citrus.

PURPLE PRINCE

Rosa 'GRApr' PP28,364

Large, well-formed, crimson-red flowers with a traditional rose perfume.

RED EMPRESS

Rosa 'GRAred' PP28,215

Large, well-formed purple flowers with the most perfume you could ever expect in a rose in the truest sense.

TOUCH OF PINK

Rosa 'GRASuper' PP23,175

Soft romantic flowers with pale pink centers and white outer whorls, and very strong fruity perfume with hints of citrus.

RBB08.15.19